Programme Objectives & Outcomes

ABOUT THE PROGRAMME OBJECTIVES AND OUTCOMES

We as human beings are all political. In recent past, the understanding of Political Science has changed. There was a time, when Political Science used to be understood in terms of State and Government. The definition of Political Science has changed with the gradual progress of society. The purpose of the course in Political Science at B.A. level is to make the students aware about the importance of their association with the state and also to expose them to the global political affairs in order to make them best suitable for various competitive examinations. Political Science explores the concerns and issues that animate public life. Using both humanistic and scientific approaches, it studies how political communities attempt to reconcile the conflicting claims of justice, power, liberty, and authority. Drawing on history, law, economics, psychology, sociology, and philosophy, Political Science is a broadly based social science that shares the traditional aims of liberal arts and education while attempting to come to grips with the major public issues of our time.

B.A. in Political Science with Learning Outcomes aims at offering a general framework within which Political Science teaching may be organized. It serves the twin goals of responding to the needs of students to grow as competent, self-reflective learners with relevant academic and professional skills while at the same time prepare them as contributors to the growing discipline. This framework is intended to help maintaining the standards of teaching, its periodic review against graduate attributes, qualification descriptors, program learning outcomes and course level learning outcomes. It is viewed in the spirit of innovation in teaching-learning process and adopted according to local conditions, regional priorities, national and global needs along with the availability of the expertise.

Looking at the diversity and complexity of the subject and diversified students' background along with subject dynamism, the curriculum is developed considering various aspects such as: -

- Entry level expectations of students coming from various Board of examination (CBSE/ICSE/CHSE/State Boards) and their socio-economic background
- General expectations from a three-year undergraduate honours training.
- The changing profile of undergraduate students

Keeping the above aspect in mind the learning objectives and outcomes have been adapted to the local, regional and linguistic diversities with the changing academic scenario and conditions. Further, the learning objectives and outcomes have been framed with a projected scope on the basis of the extent of academic facilities available (e.g. availability of faculty and their expertise, resources and opportunities for field training).

Nature and Extent of the Programme:

The programme is designed in such a way that students have the option to exit even after one year completion of the course. If a student completes one year, she is entitled to get a certificate; after completion of two years, she is entitled for a diploma certificate. Similarly, in case of three year and four year course, the students have multiple choices. We have explained the structure of the syllabus in detail in the following pages. Each semester is for 16 weeks. There are two reading lists. First one contains most important essential reading list, while a relatively long list of reference books for additional information is included in the second list. We have also tried to provide links of E resources particularly from reliable Government sources. At the end of the syllabus, we have suggested activities to be done while reading any particular paper.

Programme Objectives (PO: Four Year Course):

PO-1: The four-year Political Science syllabus at Higher Education of Odisha aims to instructs the students to demonstrate a systematic, extensive and coherent knowledge and understanding of Political Science as a subject as a whole and its applications and links to disciplinary areas of the study; including critical understanding of the established theories, principles and concepts of a number of advanced and emerging issues in the field of Political Science.

PO-2: Develop knowledge of theories, concepts, and research methods in humanities and social sciences and apply them in the subject of Political Science

PO-3: To assess how global, national and regional developments affect society and to theorize these experiences

PO-4: To train the students with a unique multidisciplinary approach in social sciences and prepares them for further academic study and for careers in the public and the private sector.

PO 5: To train the students applying subject knowledge for sustainable development practices and other areas where the knowledge of Political Science is used in the field.

SEMESTER-I

Fundamentals of Political Science (Paper-1)

Course Objectives

This course will familiarize students with the basic normative concepts in political theory and encourage them to understand how these concepts manifest in social practices. The course will also help students learn how we make use of these concepts in organizing our social living. The main objective is to project the plural, interdisciplinary orientation of political theory and to emphasise its deep engagement with the political process.

Expected Learning Outcomes

The course would provide students with a rudimentary understanding of political concepts, theories, and their application in contemporary society and their interplay with societal and economic factors. The unit-wise outcomes are given below.

Unit-I: Upon completion of this Unit, students will have acquired a comprehensive understanding of the multifaceted nature of politics, its theoretical underpinnings across disciplines, and its intricate interplay with societal and economic spheres.

Unit-II: After completing this Unit, student's understanding on the state as a political entity will be deepened and students would be able to critically examine its relationship with sovereignty, governing structures, and the multifaceted challenges posed by globalization.

Unit-III: Upon completion of Unit III, students will be able to critically analyse and synthesize the intricate concepts of power, authority, and legitimacy, as well as the interrelated notions of rights, freedoms, equality, and justice, thereby enabling them to comprehend the theoretical underpinnings that shape socio political constructs and inform discourse on contemporary issues.

Unit-IV: Upon completion of this Unit, students would have developed a nuanced and multidimensional understanding of democracy along with its models, and the critical roles played by pluralism and diversity in shaping democratic ideals, practices, and discourse. This will deepen democratic values among students.

This activity will allow students to experience and understand the dynamics of political processes and decision-making.
3. Students can conduct literature review, prepare a draft and analyse primary sources on any topic mentioned in this course.

SEMESTER-I

Introduction to the Constitution of India (Paper-2)

Course Objectives:

This course introduces students to the Constitution of India – the supreme law of the land. The primary objective of this course is to provide students with a comprehensive understanding of the constitutional framework and political institutions in India. Through a critical examination of the constitutional design, the learners will explore the foundational principles of the Indian Constitution. By tracing the historical contestations surrounding the incorporation of these values into the Constitution and their practical manifestations, learners will develop an appreciation for the intricate interplay between institutional practices and political contexts. Furthermore, the course aims to cultivate an understanding of the institutional dynamics within the Indian governance matrix, characterized by both conflict and cooperation, asymmetrical federal arrangements, and mechanisms for safeguarding vulnerable populations against discrimination. Additionally, students will gain insight into the powers and functions of key governmental figures such as the President, Prime Minister, and Chief Minister and other constitutional and non-constitutional bodies, while also delving into the intricacies of Union-State relations.

Expected Learning Outcomes:

This course endeavours to equip students with the necessary knowledge and analytical tools to engage critically with the constitutional structures and processes that underpin Indian democracy. The unit-wise outcomes are given below.

Unit-I: The learners would gain basic understanding of Indian Constitution and its underlying values. This would enable them to analyse the operation of the Constitution of India from a policy perspective, and in the context of social and cultural diversity. This would strengthen the foundation of constitutional ethics among the learners.

Unit-II: The learners would develop awareness regarding the basic structures and processes of government at both union and state levels with a specific focus on power and responsibilities of highest constitutional dignitaries. This will help them to acquire administrative skills and political insights for engaging in various institutions.

Unit-III: The learners would be familiar with the judicial structures and procedures in India. Further, the awareness about Writs, Judicial Review, PIL, Basic Structure Doctrine would enable them to develop an understanding about their rights and entitlements as citizens and methods to secure these within the legal framework, in case of violation.

Unit-IV: The learners would understand the division of power between Union and States with focus on different constitutional bodies. This would enable them to understand and analyse the manner in which the Indian federal system functions.

Course Content:

Unit-I: Basic Structure of the Indian Constitution

- a) Making of the Indian Constitution: Formation and Working of Constituent Assembly
- b) Preamble: Nature of State and Constitutional Values
- c) Fundamental Rights, Directive Principles of State Policy, Fundamental Duties

Unit-II: Legislature and Executive in Union and State

- a) Structure of the Parliament and Legislative procedures; State Legislatures
- b) President; Governor
- c) Prime Minister and Council of Ministers; Chief Minister

Unit-III: Judiciary

- a) Supreme Court of India: Structure and Functions
- b) High Courts: Structure and Functions
- c) Judicial Review and Basic Structure Doctrine, Public Interest Litigation (PIL)

Unit-IV: Union-State Relationship

- a) Division of Power: Administrative, Legislative and Financial
- b) Election Commission, Finance Commission, CAG

SEMESTER-II

Introduction to Political Theory (Paper-3)

Course Objectives:

The course seeks to foster a comprehensive and nuanced understanding of political theory, its significance within the discipline of Political Science, and its profound influence on conceptualizing and interpreting various facets of social life. Through a critical examination of influential traditions and perspectives, students will gain insights into how theoretical frameworks shape debates and discourses on socio political issues. Furthermore, the course aims to equip learners with the ability to critically analyse and deconstruct contemporary theories and perspectives that delve into the intricate interplay between politics and social constructs. It begins with an overview of why we study political theory and what are the approaches and forms of political theory. It then proceeds to elaborate in a detailed manner on the key concepts in political theory such as 'Liberty', 'Equality', 'Rights' 'Justice', 'Democracy'. It will also focus on recent trends of Political Theory. Each concept is explained through the thoughts and writings of noted theorists who have deliberated at length on that particular issue with emphasis given on readings of original writings.

Expected Learning Outcomes:

This course aims to cultivate a sophisticated understanding of the theoretical foundations that inform and shape the ever-evolving political landscape. The unit-wise outcomes are given below.

Unit-I: This unit familiarises the students with the basic concepts of political theory, how political theory has evolved as well as the nature of political theory. It also introduces the students to the normative and empirical dimensions of political theory. The necessity of values and the importance of empirical investigation in the theory building exercise is the primary objective of this unit. This unit also makes an attempt to explain how modernity influenced the theory building exercise and how it reshaped some of the important debates on politics and society.

Unit-II: This unit makes an attempt to study important traditions in political theory. These traditions influence our political decisions. Even since the evolution of industrial revolution, nation state, political questions and debates have revolved round the concepts of liberalism and Marxism. Students will be exposed to various debates in each of these traditions and their importance in the present-day context.

Unit-III: Political theory, fifty years back, was only concerned about liberalism and Marxism. Of late, with the advancement of society and our understanding of society, new ideas have emerged. They have expanded the horizon of political theory. New theories have evolved and they have thrown new challenges to the society. Modernity encouraged societies to engage in theory building exercise. The emergence of post modernity challenged the grand narratives and encouraged all of us to have micro perspective and challenge everything as modern. Similarly, new theories emerged challenging the existing power structure of the state and society. The understanding of a monocultural society has also changed with people shifting their choice of living from one country to another country. This unit promises to throw many interesting ideas to the students of political science.

Unit-IV: This unit makes an attempt to understand some of the important political ideas within the nation state framework. Once nation state is strongly established, it is important to understand the political concepts in detail. Even though concepts like citizenship and civil society are old yet these concepts need some sort of redefinition in the modern context. Similarly, the emergence of welfare state in a political system also has reinforced its presence in the modern context. A student of Political Science needs to take concepts like welfare state and swaraj seriously as it throws many new challenges to the already existing political ideas.

SEMESTER-III

Western Political Thought-I (Paper-7)

Course Objectives:

This course deals with the classical thinkers and themes of western political philosophy. It will probe the key concerns of political thought such as the good ideal and possible regimes; citizenship and civil virtues; contract, consent and trust as the alternative bases of political obligation; the relative autonomy of politics vis-à-vis philosophy or economy; and concepts such as justice, liberty, and rights. There will be an attempt to understand thinkers and texts both from philosophical and historical perspectives. The main objective is to train students in the foundational texts and thinkers of Political Science.

Expected Learning Outcomes:

The course will familiarize students with the questions, ideas and values of political philosophy addressed by political thinkers and contextualize the same to contemporary political thinking. This will enhance their comprehending and analytical capacities to read and decode the classics and use them to engage contemporary socio-political issues and clearly present their own arguments and thoughts about contemporary issues and develop ideas to engage with the latter. The unit-wise outcomes are given below.

Unit-I: Students would gain comprehensive understanding of the foundational ideas and frameworks proposed by the seminal thinkers of ancient Greece. Thus, students could make an appraisal of the enduring influence of these pioneering thinkers on subsequent political discourse and the evolution of socio -political ideologies.

Unit-II: Upon completion of this Unit, students will be able to critically examine the transformative ideas that emerged during this pivotal period in intellectual history. Through the exploration of Renaissance and early modern political thought, students will gain insights into the paradigm shifts that reshaped the understanding of power, authority, and the role of the state, laying the foundations for subsequent political philosophies and ideologies. This will enable them to connect with historically written texts and their interpretations.

Unit-III: Through this Unit students will gain a nuanced understanding of the tension between individualistic and collectivist ideologies, and would develop a critical thinking in assessing the impact of social contract theories on shaping subsequent political discourse, governance structures, and societal norms.

Unit-IV: Through this exploration of utilitarian thought, students will gain a comprehensive understanding of the principles underlying this utilitarianism, its potential applications in governance and policymaking, as well as its limitations and criticisms.

Course Content:

Unit-I: Greek Political Thought

- a) Plato: Concept of Ideal State, Theory of Justice, Philosopher King, Concept of Communism, Concept of Education
- b) Aristotle: State and Its Classification, Theory of Revolution, Concept of Law and Justice, Citizenship

SEMESTER-IV

Indian Politics (Paper-8)

Course Objectives:

The course adopts a historical-analytical framework to foster a critical understanding of the Constitutional design and governmental institutional framework in India, along with the insight on the changing nature of state, situating them within historical political processes. It seeks to acquaint students with the multifaceted manifestations of politics in India, examining the diverse mechanisms through which power is wielded and distributed across societal dimensions of caste, class, ethnicity, gender, region, language, and religion. It aims at elucidating how social power shapes and mediates the political processes. Learners would explore the interplay between caste, religion, and politics, as well as constitutional provisions for self-governance, autonomy, and development, particularly for tribal communities under the Fifth and Sixth Schedules. The course also elucidates the legal and constitutional mechanisms aimed at empowering the marginalized groups. Further, the course delves into the complex interplay between political parties, electoral systems, and governance structures in India's democratic landscape to render useful insights on the dynamics of Indian Politics.

Expected Learning Outcomes:

The course would develop among students a critical and comprehensive understanding of India's nation-building process, identity politics, political parties, and electoral process. This would enable them to analyse state policies, socio-political contexts, and democratic participation across diverse segments of Indian society. The unit-wise course outcome is given below.

Unit-I: The learners would be familiarised with the process of nation building and the changing dynamics of state in terms of policy intervention for vulnerable groups. Further, the complex understanding of the social cleavages would enable them to critically assess state's response within the broader socio-political context of India.

Unit-II: The learners would develop awareness on different social groups like caste, tribe, gender, their sense of self, persistence, and demand for recognition in the broader socio-political and historical contexts in India. Further, the complex understanding of identity politics, constitutional safeguards, issues of privileges, discrimination, mobilisation, and politicization in the context of these sections of the society would enable them to develop insights for policy formulation and identify gaps in effective policy making.

Unit-III: The learners would gain comprehensive understanding of the debates surrounding secularism, communalism, minority rights, regionalism, language diversity and demand for separate statehood. This will enable them to critically analyse the dynamics of Indian politics and the interplay of these identities in shaping the political process in India. This will harness their domain skills for future engagement in the public sector.

Unit-IV: The learners would demonstrate knowledge of political parties and party system in India. The awareness of the manner in which representation and electoral competition play out in Indian politics will enable them to evolve critical insights on voting behaviour and democratic participation of different segments of the population.

Course Content:

Unit-I: Major Contestations in Indian Politics

- a) Nation Building: Processes & Challenges
- b) Changing Nature of Indian State: Social Base of Power- Class, Caste, Ethnicity, & Gender; Welfare State & Neo-liberal State
- c) Social Justice and Affirmative Action Policies

Unit-II: Identity Politics – I

- a) Caste in Politics and Politicization of Caste, Dalits, and Backward Castes
- b) Tribe: Constitutional Provisions- Fifth & Sixth Schedules, Development and Displacement, Forest Rights Act & Challenges
- c) Gender: Participation and Representation of women in democratic institutions

Unit-III: Identity Politics - II

- a) Religion: Debates on Secularism and Communalism, Minority Rights
- b) Region and Regionalism: Autonomy and Statehood movements
- c) Language: Linguistic Diversity and Constitutional Provisions, Linguistic Reorganization of states

Unit-III: Party System and Electoral Process

- a) Indian party system: National and State parties, Trends in party system, Politics of Defection, Coalition Politics
- b) Electoral Process in India: Electoral reforms, Trends in voting behaviour
- c) Electoral Politics: Participation, Representation, and Mobilisation of different sections.

3. Refer to the original writings of these thinkers and read a book review and share your thoughts among other students and teachers.

SEMESTER-IV

Public Administration (Paper-10)

Course Objectives:

This course aims at familiarizing the learners with the foundation of Public Administration as a discipline and identifying its core concepts and theories. In addition to a conceptual understanding of public administration, this course will enable the learners to analyze various administrative theories and identify the key principles of organization. Highlighting the advantages and disadvantages of these principles may help the learners to contextualize the administrative system in the present system of governance and note the changes in application of such principles in Indian administrative system. The learners will also be introduced to the concepts of Good Governance, New Public Management, and New Public Administration as the developments in the discipline to meet the changing demands of society. Through the study of traditional binaries- such as politics-administration dichotomy, public-private administration, along with the emerging issues of public-private partnership, the ideas of e-Governance, and changing role of state and market will enable the students to note the changes in objectives and processes of administration. Further, the students will have an understanding of the structure and processes of civil service system in India.

Expected Learning Outcomes:

The course will equip the students with theoretical understanding of the core principles of public administration as well as enable them in examining the practical functioning of the administrative system in India. The topics are divided into four units with each unit dealing with a unique aspect of the discipline of public administration.

Unit-I: The learners will be introduced to the origin and evolution of the discipline of public administration. This unit will discuss the debates over politics-administration dichotomy and help the learners identify the different characteristics of public and private administration. By noting the various interventions in the discipline, the learners will be able to reflect on the changing goals of administration through different periods.

Unit-II: This unit is designed to familiarize the learners with the core principles of organization and enable them to differentiate between different types of organization. The learners will be able to understand the significance of principles like hierarchy, unity of command, delegation, etc. while noting their advantages and disadvantages.

Unit-III: This unit will offer alternative models of organizational management through analysis of dominant organizational theories. An understanding of these theories will enable the learners to evaluate the effectiveness of current structural and procedural principles and deliberate on alternative solutions to meet the contemporary challenges.

Unit-IV: After going through this unit, the learners will have a basic understanding of the prevailing administrative system in India. By studying the recruitment and training procedures of civil servants, and steps to incorporate ethics in Indian administrative system, the learners will gain insights into the working of bureaucratic system in India. The learners will also be encouraged to deliberate on the emerging issues and challenges in governance in India.

Course Content:

Unit-I: Introduction to Public Administration

- a) Public Administration as a Discipline: Meaning, Nature & Scope, Evolution
- b) Politics-Administration Dichotomy, Public vs. Private Administration
- c) New Public Administration, New Public Management & Good Governance

SEMESTER-V

Global Politics (Paper-11)

Course Objectives:

This course introduces students to the key debates on the meaning and nature of globalization by addressing its political, economic, social, cultural and technological dimensions. In keeping with the most important debates within the globalization discourse, it imparts an understanding of the working of the world economy, its anchors and resistances offered by global social movements while analysing the changing nature of relationship between the state and trans-national actors and networks. The course also offers insights into key contemporary global issues such as the proliferation of nuclear weapons, ecological issues, international terrorism, and human security before concluding with a debate on the phenomenon of global governance.

Expected Learning Outcomes:

The course intends to equip students with a comprehensive understanding of contemporary global issues, fostering critical thinking skills and analytical capabilities essential for engaging with complex international dynamics and contributing to informed decision-making in global contexts.

Unit -I: Learners would gain a comprehensive understanding of international relations, global power dynamics, and the political debates surrounding sovereignty and territoriality and the various factors influencing global political processes.

Unit-II: Learners would develop insights on cultural diversity and its impact on global interactions and conflicts and how technological advancements influence political, economic, and social structures globally.

Unit-III: This unit will aware learners about the objectives and provisions of the NPT (Non-Proliferation Treaty) and CTBT (Comprehensive Nuclear-Test-Ban Treaty) and the impact of these treaties on global security and nuclear disarmament. This would also enable learners to understand the causes, types, and impacts of international terrorism.

Unit- IV: This unit would expand learners' knowledge about the goals related to food security and poverty alleviation within the SDG framework and the objectives and outcomes of major climate summits (e.g., COP meetings) and principles and practices of managing epidemics and natural disasters as well as strategies for preparedness, response, and recovery in the face of epidemics and natural disasters.

Course Content:

UNIT-I: Globalisation: Perspectives

- a) Understanding Globalisation and its alternative perspectives
- b) Global Economy: its significance & anchors of global political economy; IMF, World Bank, WTO, TNCs
- c) Political Debates on Sovereignty & Territoriality

UNIT-II: Globalisation: Issues & Dimensions

- a) Cultural & Technological Dimensions
- b) Gender and Human Rights
- c) Ecological Issues

UNIT-III: Issues of Global Commons

- a) Proliferation of Nuclear Weapons: NPT, CTBT
- b) International Terrorism & Counter Terrorism Measures
- c) Crisis of Human Security: Refugee & Migration

2. Case Study Analysis: Provide students with case studies of globalization's impact on different regions or industries. Ask them to analyse the positive and negative effects from various perspectives.
3. Guest Speaker: Invite a guest speaker who can provide firsthand insights into the effects of globalization on a specific community or industry.
4. Multimedia Project: Ask students to create multimedia presentations (videos, podcasts, infographics) highlighting the interconnectedness of globalization with cultural diversity, technological innovation, gender equality, and environmental sustainability.
5. Field Trip or Virtual Tour: Arrange a field trip or virtual tour to a local cultural centre, technology hub, gender rights organization, or environmental conservation site. Allow students to observe real-world examples and interact with practitioners in these fields.

SEMESTER-V

Comparative Politics (Paper-12)

Course Objectives:

This course aims to familiarise students with basic concepts, methods and scope of comparative politics, different approaches with their strengths and weaknesses. The objective is to provide a deeper understanding of structures and functions of institutions in a comparative perspective. The course will examine politics in a historical framework while engaging with various themes of comparative analysis in developed and developing countries. The historical context of modern state, constitutional development and their political economy could be understood through an analysis of modern state and its processes of communication and culture.

Expected Learning Outcomes:

After the completion of the course, the learners will be able to understand the concept of comparative politics, different methods and approaches used to study comparative politics and also to evaluate some of the major policies in India. They would be aware about different development approaches and political regimes which distinguishes the political culture of developing countries from that of the developed countries. The unit-wise outcomes are given below.

Unit-I: This unit will aware the students about political systems, institutions, and their influence on behaviour, governance, and policy outcomes. It covers voting, public opinion, decision-making processes, rational choice theory, and the Interpretative Approach in comparative politics. Students will also learn about colonialism and decolonization, their historical, political, social, and cultural dynamics, and their significance in comparative politics.

Unit-II: The students can develop a comprehensive understanding of the modern nation-state in the Western context and its significance in comparative politics, including its political, economic, social, and cultural dimensions. Pupils can gain a thorough grasp of the Welfare State and its relevance in comparative politics, covering its evolution, challenges in the modern world, ideological underpinnings, historical antecedents, and policy implications. It helps the students to develop a comprehensive understanding of the state, ethnicity, nationalism, and nation-building in the developing world, including their historical roots, contemporary dynamics, and implications for governance, stability, and development.

Unit-III: The students may gain a comprehensive understanding of political culture, civic culture, political trust, social capital, post-materialism, and thesis of Huntington's clash of civilizations. This unit may enable the students to understand political communication, mass media's role in democratic societies, and media's influence on political attitudes and outcomes.

Unit-IV: This unit explores democratization, a process of regime transformation from authoritarian to democratic systems, analysing key features, drivers, and challenges, and identifying factors facilitating or hindering democratization. The students can develop a comprehensive understanding of the theoretical frameworks and debates surrounding development and under-development, and their implications for policies and practices aimed at promoting global development and social justice.

Course Content:

SEMESTER-VI

Government and Politics in Odisha (Paper-15)

Course Objectives:

This course aims to provide students with a comprehensive understanding of the political landscape at the provincial level, focusing on the state of Odisha. By delving into the socio-political history of the region, including resistance movements for provincial autonomy, learners will grasp the contextual background shaping contemporary politics. The course attempts to study the political structure and process in Odisha, while reflecting on the role of CM in Odisha politics. Additionally, it seeks to analyze the growth and development of political parties, coalition politics, electoral trends in Odisha. The course investigates the intricate interplay of caste, class, gender, and tribe in Odisha's political arena to sharpen the understanding on inclusive development in the context of Odisha. Further, the course critically examines grassroot movements led by marginalized communities, offering insights into their agency within the political landscape of Odisha.

Expected Learning Outcomes:

The course intends to develop a nuanced understanding of political dynamics and political leadership in Odisha, fostering critical insights into its socio-economic fabric and governance paradigms which shape the discourse of development in Odisha. The unit-wise outcomes are given below.

Unit-I: This unit would help in developing a basic understanding of the demographic and economic profile of the state. Further, the awareness about the creation of Odisha as a separate province and other political movements in the pre-independence period would enable the learners to gain critical insights on political developments in Odisha in the post-independence period.

Unit-II: The understanding of political leadership along with the political parties, electoral trends and patterns, regionalism, coalition politics etc. would enable learners to critically analyze the political dynamics and political culture in Odisha.

Unit-III: The knowledge of social cleavages e.g., Class, Caste, Tribe and Gender and their role in shaping the larger spectrum of politics as well as state's response to the aspirations of people through various interventions and policy initiatives would develop learners' capacity to analyze socio-political factors and government's role on the path of inclusive development.

Unit-IV: This unit would enable the learners to understand the significance of people's movement in shaping the state politics. This will enable them to appreciate the engagement of people in the democratic framework and the role of dissent in preserving the voices from the margins. Further, it will equip them with insights to formulate policies catering to the needs and aspirations of every section of the society.

Unit-I: Background of Odisha Politics

- a) Land and the People: Demography and Economy
- b) Odia Nationalism and Emergence of Odisha as a separate province
- c) Odisha in Nationalist movement, Praja Mandal movement, Communist and Socialist movements

Unit-II: Political Structure and Process in Odisha

- a) Role of Chief Minister in Odisha Politics
- b) Growth and development of political parties: National and Regional parties, Pattern of Coalition politics in Odisha, Regionalism in Odisha Politics
- c) Electoral Trends and patterns of electoral behaviour in Odisha

Unit-III: Social Structure, Development and Politics

- a) Role of Class, Caste, Tribe, and Gender in Politics
- b) Role of State in Development: Industrial and Mining Policies
- c) Social Welfare policies in Odisha: Poverty alleviation programmes, Self-Help Groups

Unit IV: Dynamics of People's Movements in Odisha

- a) Tribal Development: Tribal Advisory Council, Integrated Tribal Development Agency, Implementation of Forest Right Act, 2006

SEMESTER -VII

Contemporary Political Theory (Paper-16)

Course Objectives:

The time we live in is truly fascinating. Political theory is what we turn to in order to make sense of and possibly even alter our times. The ideas and guidelines we employ to analyse, interpret, and assess political events are laid forth in political theory. This course attempts to construct those political ideas which explain the problems of contemporary times and address those problems. First, it intends to make students aware of the political issues which emerge from the interaction between individual and community. Community and identity politics are two important aspects of political life. This course familiarizes students with political ideas in a community context. New forms of political communication have significantly affected societies. For example, impact of AI on political decisions, impact of technology in election management are something that traditional political actors like state and individual just cannot imagine. The course then proceeds to analyse the changing dimensions of freedom and justice in the context of a new technocratic society. Further, the issues of climate change and how it needs to be part of any theory building exercise is something that a student of political science should be aware of. Traditionally justice was seen as one of the most important aspects of any political study. However, justice was always understood in the context of the state. With large scale migration and the evolution of a global society, the traditional justice framework needs to change.

Expected Learning Outcome:

The course would enable students to clearly present their own arguments and thoughts about contemporary issues and develop ideas to engage with the latter. The unit-wise outcomes are given below.

Unit-I: The students will be able to understand, explain and analyse the dynamic interaction between individual and community and how different contesting political ideas are settled in a political system

Unit-II: This will cultivate analytical skills among students on new forms of communication and technological development affect the issues of freedom and justice.

Unit-III: The students will be able to explain emerging political issues like citizenship, pandemics in a global context

Unit-IV: The students will develop understanding on the framework of justice in a global perspective.

Course Content:

Unit-I: Individual and Community

- a) Individualism and Claims of Community

- b) Politics of Identity
- c) Demands for Equality, Recognition and Group Rights
- d) Politics of Difference

Unit-II: Emerging Issues in Freedom and Justice

- a) AI and its impact on Political Community
- b) Technology and its impact on Election and Democratic Process
- c) Digital Technologies and its control over individual's freedom and justice

Unit-III: Global Challenges

- a) Anthropomorphism and the politics of Global Climate Change
- b) Citizenship and State Boundaries
- c) The Politics of Global pandemics

Unit-IV: Global Justice

- a) Cosmopolitanism and Justice
- b) Distributive Justice at Home and Abroad

Activities to do:

1. Students are encouraged to visit any tribal village to know how they understand their rights. They are expected to write their opinion on questions like, “Is there any difference between our understanding and their understanding of rights?”
2. Let the students explore new ideas and present those through multimedia presentations. For instance: Identifying the technologies affecting the election process in India; Studying how technology has compromised privacy and permeated their individual space; Mentioning the changes witnessed in the society and politics because of the multinational companies; Whether the state control has increased in the private spheres of individuals and if yes, let them explain how it is evident in different aspects of life.
3. Let the students conduct surveys on how the COVID-19 pandemic has changed their lives, livelihoods, and the state’s response to it. Let them identify the gaps between poor and rich households as well as rural and urban households in accessing education, health, and other amenities during the COVID-19 lockdown.

SEMESTER -VII

Research Methodology (Paper-17)

Course Objectives:

This course establishes a foundational understanding of the fundamental concepts and methodologies integral to the study of research methodology. It helps to acquaint students with the basics of research methods, techniques, and approaches and to assist in the accomplishment of exploratory as well as result-oriented research studies. The students will be able to identify the research problem and start asking the right questions with the aim of improving their ability to make logical arguments. In addition to familiarizing the students to learn various research techniques (qualitative and quantitative), the course will also train the students in the process of writing various academic and popular writings.

Expected Learning Outcomes: This course would train the students in shaping and developing their research skills through a systematic learning framework. The unit-wise outcomes are given below.

Unit-I: This unit will give the students a basic understanding about research, its nature and characteristics, types as well as the relevance of research in general and social science research in particular.

Unit-II: After reading this unit, the students will learn about the basic components of a research such as identification of research area, Review of Literature, formulation of Hypothesis, variables etc. which are minimum requirement of any research.

Unit-III: This unit will introduce the students to the practical aspect of the research by making them familiar with sampling and its various types as well as various techniques of data collection.

Unit-IV: The students will develop their analytical skill when they engage in analysis of different types of data collected from both primary and secondary sources by using different tools like tabulation, graph charts etc. The students will also learn about Report Writing, Referencing Style and Citation Style that will be helpful during their higher studies.

Course Content:

Unit-I: Understanding Research

- a) Philosophy of Social Science Research
- b) Characteristics of Scientific Research
- c) Types of Research: Quantitative and Qualitative, Content Analysis

Unit-II: Research Design

- a) Identification of Research Problem
- b) Review of Literature
- c) Formulation of Hypothesis
- d) Variables, Types of Variables

Unit-III: Sampling and Data Collection

- a) Probability Sampling: Simple Random Sampling, Stratified Random Sampling, Cluster Sampling
- b) Non-probability Sampling: Quota Sampling, Accidental Sampling, Judgmental Sampling or Purposive Sampling, Expert Sampling, Snowball Sampling
- c) Data Collection Methods: Observation, Questionnaire, Interview and Focus Group Discussion

Unit-IV: Data Analysis and Report Writing

- a) Quantitative and Qualitative Data analysis
- b) Tabulation and Co-relation
- c) Report Writing, Citation Style

Activities to do:

1. Assign different topics to the students and ask to do Review of Literature by identifying relevant literature from their Text Books.
2. Students can be asked to collect data about observation of socio-cultural/political events by local communities in their locality using observation method.
3. Ask the students to write a report on any major problem of your locality and submit an assessment report on the same.

SEMESTER -VII

Public Policy and Governance in India (Paper-18)

Course Objectives:

This course aims at providing a basic understanding of public policy, policy making process and institutions involved in public policy making in India. Public Policies reflect the objectives and directions of the government. An organized and integrated policy structure symbolizes an efficient and effective governance system. The learners will gain insights into the development of public policy as a major determinant of Governance, understand various theories and approaches towards policy making, identify different types and stages of public policy, and note the emerging trends and goals in public policy in current times. The course is designed to offer theoretical knowledge of policy process as well as a practical opportunity to apply the tools and models in analysis of a prevailing public policy.

Expected Learning Outcomes:

This course will enable the learners to analyse various approaches to policy making, examine the policy processes and also evaluate some of the major policies in India. The unit-wise outcomes are given below.

Unit-I: This unit dealing with an introduction to public policy, different approaches and theories in policy making will enable the learners to have a theoretical understanding of what and how of public policy. The learners will be able to locate the public policy mechanism within the overall governance system.

Unit-II: After going through this unit, the learners will have a comprehensive idea on policy cycle and various types of public policy. Identifying the processes involved at each stage, the learners should be able to examine the current policy structure and analyse different policies against an ideal policy making model.

Unit-III: This unit will highlight the agencies involved in process of policy formulation and implementation in India. The learners will assess the roles of various governmental and non-governmental agencies in public policy in India and identify the strengths and gaps in Indian governance system. Analytical tools like Cost-Benefit Analysis, SWOT analysis will strengthen critical and objective insights towards policy analysis.

Unit-IV: This unit is designed to offer the learners a practical experience in policy analysis. By the completion of the earlier units, the learners are expected to have sufficient theoretical knowledge to attempt analysis of a selected policy from given sectors. Through this unit, the learners will have the opportunity to apply the analytical tools and models in evaluating a policy under the guidance of a teacher. It will polish their analytical skills and prepare them for opportunities in industry and research organizations involving similar activities.

Course Content:

Unit-I: Introducing Public Policy

- a) Public Policy: Meaning, Definitions, and Significance
- b) Approaches to Public Policy: Lasswell's Policy Science, Lindblom's Incrementalism, Dror's Normative-Optimum Approach
- c) Public Policy Theories: Elite Theory, Systems Theory, Rational-Choice Theory

Unit-II: Policy Cycle and Analysis

- a) Types of Public Policy: Regulatory, Distributive, Redistributive, Constitutional, and Substantial Public Policies
- b) Stages of Public Policy: Agenda Setting, Formulation, Adoption, Implementation, and Evaluation
- c) Policy Analysis: Cost-Benefit, SWOT, Stakeholder Analysis

Unit-III: Public Policy in India

- a) Institutions for Policy Formulation: Legislature, Executive and Judiciary
Agenda Setters: Corporate Sector, Civil Society Organizations, International Agencies
- b) Policy Implementation: Bureaucracy, Local Bodies, Non-Governmental Organisations
- c) Impact of Global Goals on Public Policy: MDGs, SDGs, HDI, GDI

Unit-IV: Experiential Learning in Public Policy

- a) Poverty Alleviation Programmes: MGNREGA
- b) Citizen-centric Accountability: RTI, Citizens' Charter, ORTPS
- c) E-Governance Initiatives: Jana Seva Kendra
- d) Public Health: ASHA
- e) Promoting Civil Society Initiatives: Mission Shakti

SEMESTER-VIII
Social And Political Movements In Contemporary India
(Paper-20)

Course Objectives:

Under the influence of globalization, developmental processes in India have produced spaces of advantage and disadvantage and new geographies of power. A variety of protest movements emerged to interrogate and challenge this development paradigm that evidently also weakens the democratic space vital to the formulation of a critical consensus. This course proposes to introduce students to the conditions, contexts and forms of political contestation over development paradigms and examine their bearings on the retrieval of democratic voice of citizens. It introduces the Social and Political movements in the Post-independent India with special reference to mobilization politics like movements for the formation of separate states, agrarian movements, tribal movements, anti-caste movements and movements related to development projects. It will help the students develop an understanding of the perspectives on three ideological strands represented by agrarian movements, anti-caste movements, and women's movement.

Expected Learning Outcomes:

This course will enable the learners to understand the issues of socio-political conflicts in India and locate these conflicts in broader theories of social movements. After completion of this course, the learners will be able to trace the origin and types of various socio-political movements in India, examine the issues of leadership, organization, and mobilization through selected movements in India. The unit-wise outcomes are given below.

Unit-I: This unit deals with a conceptual explanation of social movements, various theories related to the movements, along with an analysis of socio-political movements in India. Laying the foundation of these movements, this unit explores the diverse social and political issues in India and enables the learners to acquaint with the historical and emerging debates.

Unit-II: This unit will help the learners to identify various peasant movements and tribal movements in Indian history. In addition to understand the genesis and growth of such movements, the learners will be able to understand the dynamics and socio-political implications for Indian society. Dealing with two of the major social groups in India, i.e. peasants and tribal, the unit will also highlight the issues and challenges faced by them.

Unit-III: The learners will be able to familiarize themselves with the issues related to caste and gender in Indian society through this unit. Emergence of gender and caste movements from discriminations to political mobilization through leadership and participation of various social groups will shape the understanding of Indian society for the learners. Identifying the challenges to these movements, the learners are expected to investigate the various socio-political developments in India.

Unit-IV: This unit, discussing the environmental movements in India, will help the learners to familiarize themselves with the influence of rising global concerns over ecological movements in India. It further helps the learners to understand the changing role of state and civil society in relation to the social movements in India.

Course Content:

Unit-I

- a) Social and Political Movements: Concepts, Theories and Types
- b) Social and Political Movements in India: Background, History and Debates

Unit-II

- a) Peasants' Movements: Genesis and Growth
- b) Tribal Movements: Issues and Dynamics

Unit-III

- a) Dalit and Backward Caste Movements: Issues, Leadership and organizations.
- b) Women's Movement: Gender Justice and Empowerment
- c) Challenges to Women's Movement- Fundamentalism, Caste, Violence, and Moral Policing

Unit-IV

- a) Environmental Movements: Chipko Movement, Silent Valley Movement & Narmada Bachao Andolan.

SEMESTER -VIII

Climate Change and Politics (Paper-21)

Course Objectives:

This course aims to provide a comprehensive understanding of the intricate relationship between climate change and politics, both globally and within India. By exploring the political dimensions of climate change, the course seeks to equip learners with knowledge about the key drivers and impacts of climate change, the global and national political responses, and the strategies for adaptation and mitigation. Students will gain insights into the theoretical frameworks, policy debates, and practical challenges in addressing climate change through a political lens. Further, the sensitization regarding climate change and policy action will enable the learners to deliver their future roles in public policy making and finding innovative ways to address climate change.

Expected Learning Outcomes:

This course will enable the learners to comprehensively understand the issue of climate change, analyse the politics of climate change and various debates on this issue both at the global and national level and examine various policy initiatives for addressing this issue. The unit-wise learning outcomes are given below.

Unit-I: By the end of this unit, learners will be able to explain the phenomena of climate change and its causes, assess its impacts, and analyse the politics surrounding it, including political ecology and climate justice.

Unit-II: Upon concluding this unit, learners will be able to comprehend the concepts of climate diplomacy, climate justice, and the geopolitical dynamics of climate change. They will be able to assess the importance of global climate negotiations and agreements and their agenda as well as debates surrounding them. Furthermore, they will be able to critically examine the emergence of climate capitalism, alongside the operational aspects of carbon markets, carbon footprints, and carbon trading.

Unit-III: Upon completion of this unit, learners will proficiently recognize climate-induced challenges, assess adaptation and mitigation strategies, and evaluate the role of various stakeholders in climate action.

Unit-IV: Upon completion of this unit, learners will be able to analyse climate change politics in India, critically assess its international stance and leadership, and comprehend its institutional frameworks and policy initiatives. This will harness their analytical skills in observing the climate change phenomenon in their locality and suggest measures through appropriate climate action.

Course Content:

Unit I: Understanding the Politics of Climate Change

- a) Climate change: Meaning, Relevance; Factors influencing climate change: Natural and Anthropogenic
- b) Impacts of climate change: Environmental and Socio-economic
- c) Ecologism vs Environmentalism, Forms of Ecologism and its Critics; ‘Climate Change and Politics’ to ‘Politics of Climate Change’

3. Engage the students in community projects promoting diversity, such as awareness campaigns or collaborative events.

SEMESTER -VIII

Democratic Decentralization in India (Paper-23)

Course Objectives:

The course aims to provide a comprehensive understanding of the principles, processes, and challenges associated with decentralized governance in the Indian context. To understand the nuances of democratic decentralisation and participation of the citizens at the grassroots level, it is essential for the learners to familiarise with the institutional and the constitutional framework of local governance. Through a scholarly lens, the course delves into the theoretical underpinnings of democratic decentralization and also provides a space for enquiry into the emerging developments e.g., glocalization and new localism. It seeks to examine the evolution and functioning of rural and urban local self-government in India, tracing its historical trajectory from pre-independence initiatives to contemporary constitutional provisions and legislative frameworks. Through using these concepts and analytical frameworks informed by the scholarly literature on the subject buttressed by empirical details, the course aims at providing learners with the requisite domain and functional skills to enable them to engage in employment in rural and urban governance sector as well as Non-Governmental Organisations. Further, to examine the actual functioning of the local governing bodies, effective implementation of the policies and programmes and emerging issues and challenges in the local governance, this course envisages active learning by the learners through conducting studies on various local governance practices at the ground level. Overall, the course endeavors to equip participants with the knowledge and analytical tools necessary to navigate the complexities of democratic decentralization in the Indian context and contribute effectively to decentralized governance processes.

Course Learning Outcomes:

On completion of the course, learners would attain the following competencies.

Unit-I: This unit would inculcate fundamental understanding about democratic decentralisation among the learners. It would familiarise them with different theoretical roots of civic engagements and its several dimensions.

Unit- II: This unit would enable the learners to understand the evolution of Panchayati raj institutions in India, the institutional frameworks of rural local governance, the constitutional provisions, and reflect on the emerging issues and challenges of rural local governance.

Unit-III: Engaging with this unit will facilitate a comprehensive understanding of the constitutional provisions and institutional frameworks underpinning urban local governance. This would enable learners with critical insights on contemporary urban issues and the formulation of informed strategies for effective municipal management.

Unit-IV: The learners would examine the working of the local government institutions, efficacy of various constitutional provisions, policies and programmes, and emerging issues and challenges of local governance, through engaging themselves at the ground level study in their preferred locality. The learners are expected to prepare a report individually, on their observation, analysis, or assessment of their study on any topic provided in this unit, for the purpose of internal evaluation.

Course Content:

Unit-I: Democratic Decentralization: A Conceptual Understanding

- a) Meaning and Significance of Democratic Decentralization
- b) Theoretical roots of Civic Engagement in Governance: Liberal and Gandhian
- c) Dimensions of participation: Constitutional, Political and Administrative
- d) Local Self Government in the Era of Globalisation: New Localism, Glocalization

POLITICAL SCIENCE
(MINOR)
(CORE-II)

SEMESTER-I

Fundamentals of Political Science (Paper-1)

Course Objectives

This course will familiarize students with the basic normative concepts in political theory and encourage them to understand how these concepts manifest in social practices. The course will also help students learn how we make use of these concepts in organizing our social living. The main objective is to project the plural, interdisciplinary orientation of political theory and to emphasise its deep engagement with the political process.

Expected Learning Outcomes

The course would provide students with a rudimentary understanding of political concepts, theories, and their application in contemporary society and their interplay with societal and economic factors. The unit-wise outcomes are given below.

Unit-I: Upon completion of this Unit, students will have acquired a comprehensive understanding of the multifaceted nature of politics, its theoretical underpinnings across disciplines, and its intricate interplay with societal and economic spheres.

Unit-II: After completing this Unit, student's understanding on the state as a political entity will be deepened and students would be able to critically examine its relationship with sovereignty, governing structures, and the multifaceted challenges posed by globalization.

Unit-III: Upon completion of Unit III, students will be able to critically analyse and synthesize the intricate concepts of power, authority, and legitimacy, as well as the interrelated notions of rights, freedoms, equality, and justice, thereby enabling them to comprehend the theoretical underpinnings that shape socio political constructs and inform discourse on contemporary issues.

Unit-IV: Upon completion of this Unit, students would have developed a nuanced and multidimensional understanding of democracy along with its models, and the critical roles played by pluralism and diversity in shaping democratic ideals, practices, and discourse. This will deepen democratic values among students.

Course Content:

Unit-I: Introduction

Activities to do:

4. Students can participate in a debate on a philosophical or theoretical concept related to politics, such as the nature of power, the principles of equality and justice, which will encourage critical thinking, argumentation skills, and the ability to analyze complex concepts from multiple perspectives.
5. Organize a simulation exercise where students assume different roles in a hypothetical political system or scenario and could simulate the functioning of a democratic government, with students taking on roles like legislators, activists, lobbyists, or members of the media. This activity will allow students to experience and understand the dynamics of political processes and decision-making.
6. Students can conduct literature review, prepare a draft and analyse primary sources on any topic mentioned in this course.

SEMESTER-III

Introduction to the Constitution of India (Paper-2)

Course Objectives:

This course introduces students to the Constitution of India – the supreme law of the land. The primary objective of this course is to provide students with a comprehensive understanding of the constitutional framework and political institutions in India. Through a critical examination of the constitutional design, the learners will explore the foundational principles of the Indian Constitution. By tracing the historical contestations surrounding the incorporation of these values into the Constitution and their practical manifestations, learners will develop an appreciation for the intricate interplay between institutional practices and political contexts. Furthermore, the course aims to cultivate an understanding of the institutional dynamics within the Indian governance matrix, characterized by both conflict and cooperation, asymmetrical federal arrangements, and mechanisms for safeguarding vulnerable populations against discrimination. Additionally, students will gain insight into the powers and functions of key governmental figures such as the President, Prime Minister, and Chief Minister and other constitutional and non-constitutional bodies, while also delving into the intricacies of Union-State relations.

Expected Learning Outcomes:

This course endeavours to equip students with the necessary knowledge and analytical tools to engage critically with the constitutional structures and processes that underpin Indian democracy. The unit-wise outcomes are given below.

Unit-I: The learners would gain basic understanding of Indian Constitution and its underlying values. This would enable them to analyse the operation of the Constitution of India from a policy perspective, and in the context of social and cultural diversity. This would strengthen the foundation of constitutional ethics among the learners.

Unit-II: The learners would develop awareness regarding the basic structures and processes of government at both union and state levels with a specific focus on power and responsibilities of highest constitutional dignitaries. This will help them to acquire administrative skills and political insights for engaging in various institutions.

Unit-III: The learners would be familiar with the judicial structures and procedures in India. Further, the awareness about Writs, Judicial Review, PIL, Basic Structure Doctrine would enable them to develop an understanding about their rights and entitlements as citizens and methods to secure these within the legal framework, in case of violation.

Unit-IV: The learners would understand the division of power between Union and States with focus on different constitutional bodies. This would enable them to understand and analyse the manner in which the Indian federal system functions.

Course Content:

Unit-I: Basic Structure of the Indian Constitution

- d) Making of the Indian Constitution: Formation and Working of Constituent Assembly
- e) Preamble: Nature of State and Constitutional Values
- f) Fundamental Rights, Directive Principles of State Policy, Fundamental Duties

Unit-II: Legislature and Executive in Union and State

- d) Structure of the Parliament and Legislative procedures; State Legislatures
- e) President; Governor
- f) Prime Minister and Council of Ministers; Chief Minister

Unit-III: Judiciary

- d) Supreme Court of India: Structure and Functions
- e) High Courts: Structure and Functions
- f) Judicial Review and Basic Structure Doctrine, Public Interest Litigation (PIL)

Unit-IV: Union-State Relationship

- d) Division of Power: Administrative, Legislative and Financial
- e) Election Commission, Finance Commission, CAG
- f) NITI Ayog, Inter-State Council, GST Council

SEMESTER-V

Introduction to Political Theory (Paper-3)

Course Objectives:

The course seeks to foster a comprehensive and nuanced understanding of political theory, its significance within the discipline of Political Science, and its profound influence on conceptualizing and interpreting various facets of social life. Through a critical examination of influential traditions and perspectives, students will gain insights into how theoretical frameworks shape debates and discourses on socio political issues. Furthermore, the course aims to equip learners with the ability to critically analyse and deconstruct contemporary theories and perspectives that delve into the intricate interplay between politics and social constructs. It begins with an overview of why we study political theory and what are the approaches and forms of political theory. It then proceeds to elaborate in a detailed manner on the key concepts in political theory such as 'Liberty', 'Equality', 'Rights' 'Justice', 'Democracy'. It will also focus on recent trends of Political Theory. Each concept is explained through the thoughts and writings of noted theorists who have deliberated at length on that particular issue with emphasis given on readings of original writings.

Expected Learning Outcomes:

This course aims to cultivate a sophisticated understanding of the theoretical foundations that inform and shape the ever-evolving political landscape. The unit-wise outcomes are given below.

Unit-I: This unit familiarises the students with the basic concepts of political theory, how political theory has evolved as well as the nature of political theory. It also introduces the students to the normative and empirical dimensions of political theory. The necessity of values and the importance of empirical investigation in the theory building exercise is the primary objective of this unit. This unit also makes an attempt to explain how modernity influenced the theory building exercise and how it reshaped some of the important debates on politics and society.

Unit-II: This unit makes an attempt to study important traditions in political theory. These traditions influence our political decisions. Even since the evolution of industrial revolution, nation state, political questions and debates have revolved round the concepts of liberalism and Marxism. Students will be exposed to various debates in each of these traditions and their importance in the present-day context.

Unit-III: Political theory, fifty years back, was only concerned about liberalism and Marxism. Of late, with the advancement of society and our understanding of society, new ideas have emerged. They have expanded the horizon of political theory. New theories have evolved and they have thrown new challenges to the society. Modernity encouraged societies to engage in theory building exercise. The emergence of post modernity challenged the grand narratives and encouraged all of us to have micro perspective and challenge everything as modern. Similarly, new theories emerged challenging the existing power structure of the state and society. The understanding of a monocultural society has also changed with people shifting their choice of living from one country to another country. This unit promises to throw many interesting ideas to the students of political science.

Unit-IV: This unit makes an attempt to understand some of the important political ideas within the nation state framework. Once nation state is strongly established, it is important to understand the political concepts in detail. Even though concepts like citizenship and civil society are old yet these concepts need some sort of redefinition in the modern context. Similarly, the emergence of welfare state in a political system also has reinforced its presence in the modern context. A student of Political Science needs to take concepts like welfare state and swaraj seriously as it throws many new challenges to the already existing political ideas.

Course Content:

Unit-I: Introduction

- d) What is Political Theory? Why do we need Political Theory?
- e) Approaches to Political Theory: Normative and Empirical
- f) Modernity and Political Theory

Unit-II: Traditions

- e) Liberalism
- f) Neo-Liberalism
- g) Marxism
- h) Neo-Marxism

Unit-III: Recent Trends

- e) Feminism
- f) Post-Modernism

SEMESTER-VII

Comparative Governments (Paper-4)

Course Objectives:

This course will familiarize the students with the basic concepts and approaches to the study of comparative governments. It enables the students to critically examine politics in historical and contemporary perspectives while engaging with various themes of comparative analysis in developed and developing countries. This course is designed to address the various elements of constitutional systems in the world including political parties, interest groups, election process, in addition to an analysis of the dominant executive, legislature and judicial systems all over the world.

Expected Learning Outcomes:

This course would enable the students to understand concepts and various approaches relevant to the study of comparative politics. The students would familiarise with a vast range of relevant political concepts and processes supposed to train their critical thinking to understand comparative politics and government. The unit-wise outcomes are given below.

Unit-I: This will help students to engage with the topics of comparative government, institutionalism, neo-institutionalism, and the comparison of democratic and authoritarian regimes in a comprehensive and critical manner.

Unit-II: This unit will aware students about a structured framework for engaging with the concepts, theories, and empirical research associated with comparative government, institutionalism, neo-institutionalism, and the comparison of democratic and authoritarian regimes.

Unit-III: This unit will help students in developing a comprehending skill on the working of legislatures, the executive branch, and bureaucracies in political systems, including their structures, functions, and dynamics in both democratic and authoritarian states.

Unit-IV: This unit will enhance the analogical capacities and critical thinking about elections, political parties, and interest groups in political systems, including their roles, dynamics, and implications for democratic governance in both democratic and authoritarian contexts.

Course Content:

Unit-I: Introduction

- d) Comparative Government: Meaning and Evolution
- e) Institutionalism and Neo-Institutionalism
- f) Comparing Democratic and Authoritarian Regimes

Unit-II: Legislature, Executive and Bureaucracy

- d) Legislatures: Concept, Functions, Structures, Legislature in Democratic and Authoritarian states

Activities to do:

6. Case Study Analysis: Divide the students into groups and assign each group a case study of a democratic and authoritarian regime. Ask them to analyze the structure and functioning of legislatures, executives, and bureaucracies in each regime, considering factors such as power distribution, accountability mechanisms, and institutional constraints.
7. Debate: Organize a debate on the merits of democratic and authoritarian regimes, with students taking on different roles representing each perspective. Encourage the students to present arguments based on theories of institutionalism and neo-institutionalism, discussing the strengths and weaknesses of each regime type.
8. Case Analysis: Provide case studies of legislatures, executives, and bureaucracies in democratic and authoritarian states. Ask the students to analyze the functions, structures, and roles of each institution, comparing how they operate in different political contexts and identifying patterns of institutional behavior.
9. Mock Trial: Encourage students to organize a mock trial activity where students role-play as lawyers, judges, and witnesses in a legal case. Students can explore concepts of judicial review, judicial activism, and judicial independence, analyzing how the judiciary operates in democratic and authoritarian states.
10. Campaign Simulation: Organize a campaign simulation where students role-play as candidates, campaign managers, and voters in a mock election. Students can explore different electoral systems, campaign strategies, and the role of political parties and interest groups in shaping electoral outcomes.

SEMESTER-VIII

Colonialism and Nationalism in India (Paper-5)

Course Objectives:

The purpose of this course is to help the students understand India's colonial past, the shaping of the nationalist ideology and the unfolding of the national movement. Integral to the course is understanding the ideas of democracy and freedom along with corresponding social relations as well as political and institutional practices that took shape in the context of the anti-colonial struggles. The institutions of the state, its policies, and the social and economic structures that exist today, reflect the imprint of the colonial experience and the manner in which they have been transformed in the course of social struggles and the national movement.

SEMESTER-II

Fundamentals of Political Science (Paper-1)

Course Objectives

This course will familiarize students with the basic normative concepts in political theory and encourage them to understand how these concepts manifest in social practices. The course will also help students learn how we make use of these concepts in organizing our social living. The main objective is to project the plural, interdisciplinary orientation of political theory and to emphasise its deep engagement with the political process.

Expected Learning Outcomes

The course would provide students with a rudimentary understanding of political concepts, theories, and their application in contemporary society and their interplay with societal and economic factors. The unit-wise outcomes are given below.

Unit-I: Upon completion of this Unit, students will have acquired a comprehensive understanding of the multifaceted nature of politics, its theoretical underpinnings across disciplines, and its intricate interplay with societal and economic spheres.

Unit-II: After completing this Unit, student's understanding on the state as a political entity will be deepened and students would be able to critically examine its relationship with sovereignty, governing structures, and the multifaceted challenges posed by globalization.

Unit-III: Upon completion of Unit III, students will be able to critically analyse and synthesize the intricate concepts of power, authority, and legitimacy, as well as the interrelated notions of rights, freedoms, equality, and justice, thereby enabling them to comprehend the theoretical underpinnings that shape socio political constructs and inform discourse on contemporary issues.

Unit-IV: Upon completion of this Unit, students would have developed a nuanced and multidimensional understanding of democracy along with its models, and the critical roles played by pluralism and diversity in shaping democratic ideals, practices, and discourse. This will deepen democratic values among students.

This activity will allow students to experience and understand the dynamics of political processes and decision-making.
9. Students can conduct literature review, prepare a draft and analyse primary sources on any topic mentioned in this course.

SEMESTER-IV

Introduction to the Constitution of India (Paper-2)

Course Objectives:

This course introduces students to the Constitution of India – the supreme law of the land. The primary objective of this course is to provide students with a comprehensive understanding of the constitutional framework and political institutions in India. Through a critical examination of the constitutional design, the learners will explore the foundational principles of the Indian Constitution. By tracing the historical contestations surrounding the incorporation of these values into the Constitution and their practical manifestations, learners will develop an appreciation for the intricate interplay between institutional practices and political contexts. Furthermore, the course aims to cultivate an understanding of the institutional dynamics within the Indian governance matrix, characterized by both conflict and cooperation, asymmetrical federal arrangements, and mechanisms for safeguarding vulnerable populations against discrimination. Additionally, students will gain insight into the powers and functions of key governmental figures such as the President, Prime Minister, and Chief Minister and other constitutional and non-constitutional bodies, while also delving into the intricacies of Union-State relations.

Expected Learning Outcomes:

This course endeavours to equip students with the necessary knowledge and analytical tools to engage critically with the constitutional structures and processes that underpin Indian democracy. The unit-wise outcomes are given below.

Unit-I: The learners would gain basic understanding of Indian Constitution and its underlying values. This would enable them to analyse the operation of the Constitution of India from a policy perspective, and in the context of social and cultural diversity. This would strengthen the foundation of constitutional ethics among the learners.

Unit-II: The learners would develop awareness regarding the basic structures and processes of government at both union and state levels with a specific focus on power and responsibilities of highest constitutional dignitaries. This will help them to acquire administrative skills and political insights for engaging in various institutions.

Unit-III: The learners would be familiar with the judicial structures and procedures in India. Further, the awareness about Writs, Judicial Review, PIL, Basic Structure Doctrine would enable them to develop an understanding about their rights and entitlements as citizens and methods to secure these within the legal framework, in case of violation.

Unit-IV: The learners would understand the division of power between Union and States with focus on different constitutional bodies. This would enable them to understand and analyse the manner in which the Indian federal system functions.

Course Content:

Unit-I: Basic Structure of the Indian Constitution

- g) Making of the Indian Constitution: Formation and Working of Constituent Assembly
- h) Preamble: Nature of State and Constitutional Values
- i) Fundamental Rights, Directive Principles of State Policy, Fundamental Duties

Unit-II: Legislature and Executive in Union and State

- g) Structure of the Parliament and Legislative procedures; State Legislatures
- h) President; Governor
- i) Prime Minister and Council of Ministers; Chief Minister

Unit-III: Judiciary

SEMESTER-VI

Introduction to Political Theory (Paper-3)

Course Objectives:

The course seeks to foster a comprehensive and nuanced understanding of political theory, its significance within the discipline of Political Science, and its profound influence on conceptualizing and interpreting various facets of social life. Through a critical examination of influential traditions and perspectives, students will gain insights into how theoretical frameworks shape debates and discourses on socio political issues. Furthermore, the course aims to equip learners with the ability to critically analyse and deconstruct contemporary theories and perspectives that delve into the intricate interplay between politics and social constructs. It begins with an overview of why we study political theory and what are the approaches and forms of political theory. It then proceeds to elaborate in a detailed manner on the key concepts in political theory such as 'Liberty', 'Equality', 'Rights' 'Justice', 'Democracy'. It will also focus on recent trends of Political Theory. Each concept is explained through the thoughts and writings of noted theorists who have deliberated at length on that particular issue with emphasis given on readings of original writings.

Expected Learning Outcomes:

This course aims to cultivate a sophisticated understanding of the theoretical foundations that inform and shape the ever-evolving political landscape. The unit-wise outcomes are given below.

Unit-I: This unit familiarises the students with the basic concepts of political theory, how political theory has evolved as well as the nature of political theory. It also introduces the students to the normative and empirical dimensions of political theory. The necessity of values and the importance of empirical investigation in the theory building exercise is the primary objective of this unit. This unit also makes an attempt to explain how modernity influenced the theory building exercise and how it reshaped some of the important debates on politics and society.

Unit-II: This unit makes an attempt to study important traditions in political theory. These traditions influence our political decisions. Even since the evolution of industrial revolution, nation state, political questions and debates have revolved round the concepts of liberalism and Marxism. Students will be exposed to various debates in each of these traditions and their importance in the present-day context.

Unit-III: Political theory, fifty years back, was only concerned about liberalism and Marxism. Of late, with the advancement of society and our understanding of society, new ideas have emerged. They have expanded the horizon of political theory. New theories have evolved and they have thrown new challenges to the society. Modernity encouraged societies to engage in theory building exercise. The emergence of post modernity challenged the grand narratives and encouraged all of us to have micro perspective and challenge everything as modern. Similarly, new theories emerged challenging the existing power structure of the state and society. The understanding of a monocultural society has also changed with people shifting their choice of living from one country to another country. This unit promises to throw many interesting ideas to the students of political science.

Unit-IV: This unit makes an attempt to understand some of the important political ideas within the nation state framework. Once nation state is strongly established, it is important to understand the political concepts in detail. Even though concepts like citizenship and civil society are old yet these concepts need some sort of redefinition in the modern context. Similarly, the emergence of welfare state in a political system also has reinforced its presence in the modern context. A student of Political Science needs to take concepts like welfare state and swaraj seriously as it throws many new challenges to the already existing political ideas.
